

It's Fresher WHEN IT'S LOCAL

This spring look for Asparagus grown in Michigan.
Food locally produced is fresher and safer.

And you'll feel good knowing that your food purchase is helping to support families here at home.

Michigan Asparagus is grown in Oceana, Mason and Van Buren counties near the shores of Lake Michigan. The industry supports approximately three hundred and fifty family farms who contribute over $25 million a year to our state's economy.

Michigan Asparagus is in season from late May to early July. It's one of the most nutritionally balanced of all vegetables. Only Michigan asparagus is "hand snapped" above ground. Ensuring you'll have "all green and all edible all the time."
